

NEW MEMBER PACKET

WELCOME

Hi There!

WE ARE EXCITED TO WELCOME YOU AS AN NECPA MEMBER INSTITUTION!

The Nebraska Collegiate Prevention Alliance (NECPA) was founded in 2006 and is currently serving 26 member institutions of higher education in the state. The NECPA is headquartered in the College of Education and Human Sciences at the University of Nebraska - Lincoln and receives funding from the Department of Health and Human Services, Behavioral Health Division and the Nebraska Department of Transportation, Highway Safety Office.

Our mission is to work collaboratively to develop strategies for reducing and preventing high-risk drinking and substance use among Nebraska college students.

The NECPA partners with colleges across Nebraska to provide the best practices to reduce high-risk behaviors. Through collaboration with statewide college personnel, the NECPA is committed to creating communities across the state that promote and support positive choices for students in higher education. Through coalitions with statewide college staff and faculty, NECPA is committed to creating communities across Nebraska that promote and support positive choices for students in higher education, and to partner with colleges throughout the state to provide the best practices to reduce high-risk behaviors.

Let's do this!

Our History

In 1997, the Harvard College Alcohol survey showed that 62.5% of UNL students engaged in binge drinking at least once in 2 weeks. Consequences of college drinking often affect the student, their peers, their campus and surrounding community.

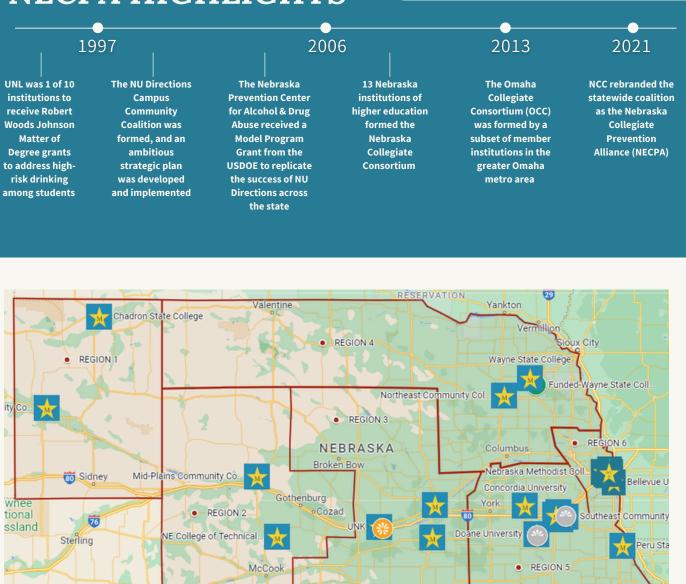

In response to this finding, UNL was invited to apply for one of ten A Matter of Degree grants from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to address the problem using a comprehensive environmental approach. The NU Directions Campus Community Coalition was formed and an ambitious strategic plan was developed and implemented.

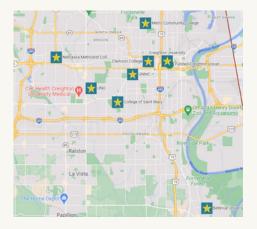

Over the years, NU Directions made great strides in implementing evidence-based prevention and harm reduction strategies, resulting in significant declines in binge drinking rates and related harms on UNL campus.

Due to the success of NU Directions, the coalition believed that comprehensive environmental strategies could be utilized to reduce high-risk drinking among all college students across Nebraska. In 2006, The Nebraska Prevention Center for Alcohol & Drug Abuse received a Model Program Grant from the US Department of Education to replicate the successes of NU Directions across the state, and 13 member institutions came together to form the Nebraska Collegiate Consortium to Reduce High-Risk Drinking (NCC).

NECPA HIGHLIGHTS

Over the next decade, the statewide coalition expanded to include 26 institutions of higher education who have participated in extensive training in campus organizing, needs assessments, strategic planning, implementation of best practices to reduce substance use and other essential skills related to reducing high-risk drinking. The NCC continued to develop as an organization and expand the array of services available to an ever-growing membership.

In 2013, the Omaha Collegiate Consortium (OCC) was formed by a subset of member institutions in the greater Omaha metro area. Currently, seven member institutions within the OCC continue to work with NECPA to secure grant funding for their prevention efforts to reduce substance use and related harms on their campuses and in their shared community. The OCC also supports the Collegiate Recovery Community on UNO's campus.

Nebraska Collegiate Prevention Alliance

Our Mission

Nebraska Collegiate Prevention Alliance (NECPA) works collaboratively to develop strategies for reducing and preventing high-risk drinking and substance use among Nebraska college students. Since the landscape of prevention in higher education has changed during the last several years, the NCC knew that we needed to adjust our focus to better address the realities that our member institutions were operating in. In partnership with our members, we decided to broaden our scope of work to include prevention related to marijuana, prescription drugs, illicit and polysubstance use. In addition to this change in scope, the NCC also recognized the need to be able to address student well-being and mental health as oftentimes these issues go hand in hand with alcohol and drug use.

In January of 2021 the NCC rebranded the statewide coalition as the Nebraska Collegiate Prevention Alliance (NECPA) to better reflect our new commitments.

Our Value

There are no membership dues required to become a member institution. Members have access to the following resources:

- Funding for evidence-based prevention activities on each campus
- Access to programmatic resources
- Opportunities to join local prevention coalitions and apply for state and federal substance abuse prevention grants
- Access to the Power of Parenting website for outreach to parents of incoming students at Nebraska institutions of higher education
- Opportunities to meet with campus alcohol task force members from other institutions of higher education
- Technical assistance from NECPA staff at all steps of the program development process, from initial needs assessment to program evaluation
- Access to data collection resources and assistance with collection and analysis
- Travel support to attend state, regional, and national training when funding allows

From 2020 to 2024, the NECPA secured grant funding to fully cover the costs for member institutions to participate in the biennial Nebraska Assessment of College Health Behaviors (NACHB) survey, including dissemination and data analysis. The NECPA aims to continue funding these expenses, contingent upon the renewal of grant support.

Members also have access to the College Behavior Profile (CBP) and Year 1 College Behavior Profile (Y1CBP) programs customized for their campus at a significantly discounted rate. Historically, the NECPA has been able to cover the cost to build new programs for members. Members are asked to cover server fees which are around $250/yr for each program.

Announcements about programming support, travel and training stipends, and other available resources are shared on the NECPA website, LinkedIn page, and in the NECPA newsletter.

BRIEF INTERVENTION & DATA COLLECTION RESOURCES

The NECPA has collaborated with researchers and practitioners at the University of Nebraska–Lincoln (UNL), national brief intervention experts, and UNL students to develop data collection tools and brief intervention programs for implementation by member institutions with their student populations.

- Can be customized to fit each campuses unique population
- Designed to reduce high-risk behaviors and related harms among college students
- Can reinforce low-risk behaviors and reaffirm those who abstain
- Utilizes personalized normative feedback and brief motivational intervention
- Data can be broken down by demographics to help identify the most effective prevention strategies
- Y1CBP is used as a pre-matriculation prevention program and provides extensive data about the behaviors of incoming first year students

- Designed to assess students' personal attitudes and behaviors related to alcohol, drugs, mental health issues, and personal violence
- Helps understand individual attitudes towards campus and community policies, other student's behavior, and bystander interventions
- Can help identify campus behavior trends over time

TRAININGS & PROGRAMS

The NECPA provides our member institutions with a number of educational resources, training, and access to campaign assets to enhance evidence-based prevention programming on campus.

The Power of Parenting shows parents how to support their child as they navigate the changes and new experiences that come with college. Research has found that parents can have a powerful influence on a student's successful transition to college life. College students give parents a great deal of credit for guiding them towards reducing consumption or abstaining from alcohol. Member institutions have access to postcards and resources to share this powerful information with parents of incoming freshmen.

- Brief Alcohol Screening and Intervention for College Students (BASICS)
- Bystander Intervention
- Generation Rx
- Challenge the Silence
- Brief Motivational Interviewing (BMI)
- Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act
- iChamp
- Shot of Reality
- CRC Ally Training
- Travel to regional and national conferences
- Statewide convenings
- Updates on other relevant emerging research

Social norms campaigns are one of the most effective evidence-based prevention strategies, focusing on correcting the misperceptions that students have about peer behaviors. NECPA utilizes data from the Y1CBP, NACHB, and other institutional-level resources to create statewide social norms media campaigns. Members have access to digital assets generated from statewide and campus specific data that they can use to run campaigns around their campus during periods known for high risk drinking.

The NECPA supports Collegiate Recovery Communities at member institutions. Learn more about the two CRCs available in Nebraska on the following pages.

In partnership with Housing and Residence Life, students living on campus have the opportunity to participate in recovery-themed housing. Students living in recovery-themed housing will have direct access to the Collegiate Recovery Community (CRC) and share an apartment with other students in recovery, seeking recovery, or serving as recovery allies.

The CRC offers the following support to students living in recovery-themed housing at UNO:

- Four bedroom, two bathroom, living area, and full kitchen apartment in University Village
- Social support and community with other students living on campus who are in or seeking recovery
- On-campus recovery meetings
- On-campus and off-campus educational opportunities and events
- Leadership opportunities in the CRC student organization

The UNO Collegiate Recovery Community (CRC) builds a common and safe space for students in or seeking recovery from addiction and recovery allies to gather, socialize, support one another, and achieve academic success. Our aim is to create an environment that facilitates connections between students working on maintaining recovery while attending classes, achieving their academic goals, and engaging in UNO and the greater Omaha community. All students are welcome in the CRC - those in recovery, those seeking more information about recovery, and those interested in recovery allyship.

BENEFITS OF THE COLLEGIATE RECOVERY COMMUNITY

Research shows that students in recovery who participate in collegiate recovery programs attain higher GPAs, higher persistence rates, and higher graduation rates.

Students in Nebraska's Collegiate Recovery Community will gain:

- Social support and fellowship with other students who are in recovery
- Access to a weekly meeting that is open to all recovery programs and provides a supportive, alcohol and drug free environment to talk with peers
- Opportunities for leadership in the development of Nebraska's Collegiate Recovery Community

Referrals to specialized services such as individual counseling, peer listening, tutoring, and financial aid

The college environment can present additional challenges to students in recovery or seeking recovery from addiction. Nebraska's Collegiate Recovery Community (CRC) will support a student's decision to remain sober by connecting students with a community of like-minded peers.

The UNL CRC also welcomes students in or seeking recovery from other institutions as well as anyone interested in learning more about recovery at Nebraska. The goal is to offer a caring, supportive environment that fosters individual well-being, academic success, and character growth to transform students in recovery into leaders in our community.

Our Team & Members

NECPA members represent a diverse array of professionals from Nebraska's higher education institutions, all united by a shared commitment to reducing and preventing high-risk drinking and substance use among college students. Their collective goal is to foster campus environments that support student well-being and help them reach graduation healthy, well, and ready to thrive.

These representatives bring expertise in various prevention strategies, including evidence-based interventions, policy development, environmental approaches, and student engagement initiatives. Through collaboration within the coalition, they support one another and extend their efforts beyond their campuses to promote a statewide culture of wellness and resilience.

NECPA SR. PROJECT MANAGER

ABOUT ME

I am a lifelong resident of Lincoln, NE. Early in my career, I explored various professional roles before returning to college in my late 20s to complete my bachelor's degree—a pivotal step that launched my transition into public service. I went on to serve in public health for 11 years with the State of Nebraska, where I remained committed to lifelong learning and helping people live better lives. After transitioning to the NU system, I earned a master's degree in Critical & Creative Thinking from UNO and went on to pursue a second master's in Counseling with a concentration in Student Affairs in Higher Education.

As Sr. Project Manager, I oversee grant activities, provide technical assistance to member campuses, and support our project director with administrative functions. While our primary mission centers on alcohol and drug prevention programming, my true passion lies in promoting student mental health and well-being. With lived experience as a non-traditional student and college parent, I bring a deeply personal perspective to my work and an understanding of the diverse challenges today's students face. I believe student affairs professionals play a crucial role in shaping campus cultures that help students make it to graduation healthy, well, and ready to thrive.

WENDY SCHARDT

DIRECTOR OF STUDENT HEALTH & COUNSELING, CAMPUS RECREATION

ABOUT ME

I have been in the mental health field for 28 years. I am originally from York, Pennsylvania but began my professional career working with victims of sexual abuse and domestic violence in an outpatient clinic in Baltimore City. I eventually transitioned into school-based mental health through a community-based program managed by Johns Hopkins Hospital. Several years later, I moved to the DC metropolitan area where I continued my interest in school mental health, juvenile justice and healthcare finance. I hold a Master of Science Degree in Art Therapy from Eastern Virginia Medical School and am a Licensed Mental Health Practitioner in Nebraska and have a License in Professional Counseling. I am also a National Certified Counselor and a Registered Art Therapist, Board Certified as well as a Certified Telemental Health Provider. I extended my education in Wellington, New Zealand, as a specialized trainer in Family Group Conferencing, a family engagement system in child welfare that was adopted by the District of Columbia's Juvenile Justice Agency in 2010. In addition to my clinical background, I am a Certified Public Manager and hold a Greenbelt certification in Six Sigma from George Washington University's Center for Excellence in Public Leadership. Prior to my move to Nebraska in 2014, I was the Director of Behavioral Health Programs in a med-surg hospital (acute care) in Washington DC, focused on the treatment of severe and acute mental illnesses in an inner urban population. Currently, my full-time job is the Director of Student Health and Counseling/Campus Recreation at UNK where I provide leadership to the overall mission and vision of the Counseling Department, the University Student Health Clinic, Campus Recreation, the Health Promotion office, and the Loper Mental Health Outreach office. Throughout my career, I have developed specialties in several areas including art psychotherapy, co-occurring disorders, leadership, management, hospital systems, college health, juvenile justice evidenced-based practices, civil forensic matters (e.g. civil commitment legal proceedings in mental health), and healthcare finance. I am married with two children. My daughter is a senior in high school and my son is a junior at UNK. I have been an instructor for the past 9 years. I teach Culture and Ethnic Identity as well as Foundations (LNSK, 103).

ALAINA SMITH

SENIOR DIRECTOR, RESIDENTIAL STUDENT INITIATIVES

ABOUT ME

I have worked at Bellevue University for 13 years. In my current role, I work with Admissions and Advising for on-campus traditional students, as well as Residence and Student Life. I love welcoming new students to campus and watching them grow and change before crossing the stage at graduation. I also teach Sociology part-time and enjoy connecting with students in the classroom and getting to learn more about their life experiences.

ABOUT ME

Born and raised in Lincoln, NE, I embarked on a journey that would blend my education and personal growth. Initially drawn to Chadron State College on a football scholarship, I discovered more than just athletic pursuits-my time there shaped my career path and personal life profoundly. My professional journey in higher education was set forth in Housing & Residence Life for eight years, where I served by fostering safe and supportive living environments conducive to academic success and personal development. Through roles that spanned from summer RA to Director, I've honed my skills in community building, conflict resolution, and educational programming. Over the years, I've witnessed significant societal shifts, including evolving attitudes towards substance use. I've helped address traditional challenges like bingedrinking to navigating the complexities of cannabis legalization and its impact on campus culture. My approach to disseminating critical information has been multifaceted, ranging from providing thoughtful presentations during freshman move-in to designing residence life programs that promote wellness and responsibility. I've also been involved in implementing educational conduct sanctions aimed at nurturing accountability and growth among students. Beyond my professional endeavors, Western Nebraska has ample scenery and outdoor activities to occupy any downtime. But above all, my "why" is my wife and three children.

- I play a variety of recreational sports like table tennis, softball, & golf
- I enjoy hunting (deer, turkey, dove)
- I play piano

DEAN OF STUDENTS

ABOUT ME

I was born and raised in Lincoln, NE. In January of 2002, I moved to Colorado and spent time in Denver and Northern Colorado before moving back home. I have always enjoyed meeting with students, demystifying the college navigational process, and establishing equitable policies. I am excited to work with our students in helping them build awareness with healthy decision making and establishing community partnerships to assist with drug and alcohol awareness.

DEAN OF STUDENTS ASSISTANT CAMPUS DIRECTOR- MILFORD

ABOUT ME

I have over 13 years working in Higher Education Student Affairs and 20+ years working in the child welfare/human services realm. These various roles all involved identifying both strengths and barriers to human flourishing and developing client/student-centered strategies to assist in achieving goals. Currently, I have oversight of my campus' prevention and student development efforts that are centered around a holistic model of wellbeing and grounded in best practices.

- Snow skiing is one of my favorite things to do
- About 5 years ago I got into weight training. I'm quite proud of my 285lb deadlift max
- I have 2 boys age 16 and 19 who have wicked senses of humor
- I have an impressive, but completely useless, ability to remember song lyrics

Recovery Allies

Tips for supporting a person struggling with addiction or in recovery

WHY YOUR APPROACH AND LANGUAGE IS IMPORTANT Recovery allies in the broader community play a vital role in supporting individuals on their recovery journey. By becoming educated about addiction and recovery, and leveraging their spheres of influence, allies help reduce stigma and create more supportive environments. While recovery requires personal commitment and the difficult work of rebuilding life without substances, it is not a journey taken alone. Recovery allies are essential to recognizing and responding to the physical and emotional needs of those in early recovery and beyond.

Tips for Allies

Don't talk when the person is drunk or high. They likely won't be able to process what you are talking about.

Remember and convey that they aren't bad as a person.

Focus on specifics and consequences; distinguish between the person and the behavior.

Avoid all or nothing statements (i.e. saying "always" and "never").

Use "I" statements. Someone can't argue with the way you feel.

Stick to the facts.

Don't take things personally.

Always be kind and offer love and support.

Don't judge or moralize their behavior.

Tough love and punishment have been promoted a lot, but research has shown this approach doesn't really work.

Set healthy boundaries and take care of yourself.

Love them from a healthy standpoint without reacting to them.

Offer to walk them to their first appointment or meeting.

Know that you can't fix them. They have to be an active participant in their care, no one can do it for them.
